LECTURE ON CALIFORNIA.

Some Interesting Things Described by George S. Applegate.

A church is an odd place to go for an insight into opium dens, gambling hells and other such places of iniquity, but at the Christian Church last evening a large audience was taken through many resorts of the kind via the stereopticon George S. Applegate, who gave best lectures ever heard in this city, on "A Trip to California." The entertainment was given under the direction of the Indianapolis Christian Endeavor Union, and assisting were Mr. Ellis Levey on the violin, accompanied by Mrs. S. L. Kiser. The slides were clear and the pictures of the beautiful mountains and valleys made

From the busy scenes of Chicago through the wild and picturesque country of Colorado and the Sacramento valley the audience was ushered into the wharf of San Francisco and into that well-known part of the city called Chinatown, covering nine squares, within whose radius are 60,000 almond-eyed Celestials. This part of the lecture, which disclosed new and interesting information about the Chinese, was probably the most enjoyable. The life of the inhabitants of Chinatown was discussed and all the various buildings described. Many of the people live in houses ten by twelve feet, cooking, eating and sleeping there. Guides charge $1 apiece to show strangers over the town. After a brief description of the Presbyterian Mission, which is doing great good among the heathen, the audience was taken through the slums and into the various dens. One of the features of the lecture was the description of the condition of the slave trade in Chinese women. The speaker explained that, although every effort had been made to stop this shameful traffic, it continues unchecked and hundreds of women are sold each year into lives of shame and degradation by the traders. One Chinaman boasts that he has made over $20,000 in the slave market.

Another interesting description of the conditions was the manner in which girl babies are treated. They are looked upon as a nuisance, and in many instances are killed. The visits to opium dens proved interesting, as did also the explanations of the churches, Murderer's alley, the theaters and other features of Chinatown.

MUST HAVE "ANNIE LAURIE."

Eugene Cowles Called Upon to Render the Old Song Nightly.

While "Annie Laurie" may be the oldest song in the collection used by Eugene Cowles, it is by far the favorite of the crowds that are attending Fair Bank this week. He did not include "Annie Laurie" in his programme Monday evening, but he was not permitted to leave the stage until he had sung it. Again last evening the crowd, which was twice as large as on the opening evening and much more demonstrative, called upon him to sing "Annie When he concluded he was encored several times. Mr. Cowles sang five songs last evening and every one scored a pronounced hit. His own song, "Forwas well received and the new "Parted," by Tosti, was sung through twice before the crowd was partially satisfied. A new programme of instrumental music dered by Ostendorff's Band and a change of programme will be made every night during the week. Mr. Cowles has scored such a pronounced hit with the ongs he is now singing he will make no decided change in his programme for to-night. He says he intends, however, to sing many new songs before his engagement is concluded. On Saturday matinee special programme will be given and Mr. Cowies will sing several love ballads. Reserved seats in the pavilion directly in front of the stage may be secured by telephone to Fair Bank.

That Old Lace Shawl.

New York Sun. occupying a position of usefulness as a shoulder covering, in the old three-cornered shape, with one point in the back and arms. Yet one of the good old Chantilly sort was responsible for a smart effect on a Fifth-avenue afternoon toilet the other day. To be sure, the drapery was deftly manipulated to simulate the present favorite fichu appearance rather than the ancient shawl foldings. But it was many a year since that shawl had seen the light of day, and one unconsciously looked for the bouffantry afforded by the hoopskirt and the "cheek" trimmings of the big yoke bonnets, which were the fashion when the lace shawl was last at the height of its vogue. It is time, indeed, to give the dainty oldtime shawls an airing. The lace shawls are just the things for the fichu and pelerine-shaped shoulder coverings, and they also lend themselves to graceful evening gown draperies. A woman displaying one of these treasures to her daughter the other day recalled a remark of a sagacious fashion votary when she was a girl and when lace shawls and velvet polonaises were the height of elegance. Someone had criticised the woman for wearing a lace shawl on the streets on a chilly day, and her reply was in unison with the spirit of to-day's girls as well as of her own remote era: "Don't you know there is nothing so warm as a lace shawl nor so cool as a velvet polonaise?"

Raw Eggs for the Girls.

Philadelphia Inquirer. nervous women, and now comes a college girl who sings the praises or raw eggswithout any frills or accessories.

This college girl went through a course of studies with basket ball, tennis, golf and gymnastic side issues, when the family physician had warned her family that she was not strong enough to stand a year of such rigorous living. The girl confessed to keeping eggs in her room all the time, throughout the day, growing fond of them and consuming sometimes five and six without thinking—singly, of course. They had the effect of a tonic. Another girl in her last year at school swallows one, directly she returns from school another, and at dinner one is broken into her soup. The iron in the egg bolsters her up finely, and she no more complains of a weak back or enervation. The treatment is recommended to other grow-

A Summer Tablecloth.

Brooklyn Eagle. Table covers made of Japanese napkins are a novelty of the season. About thirty napkins are required for one cover. A thin sheet of wadding is placed between covers formed of four napkins arranged in a square and the table cloth is thus made reversible. A fringe is an essential bit of decoration and twenty-four napkins are required for the making. They are slashed rather fine, each napkin being folded once, and a double row utilized for the fringe. A very pretty cover is made by using napkins which show a design of cups and saucers. or pottery in Japanese effect. These napkins are not as easily procured as those ornamented with ordinary flower patterns. Napkins having similar designs are preferable, all green or blue, pink or corn color. Some dainty covers are formed of napkins in delft colorings.

Remarkable Dish. New York Evening Sun. Lovers of buttermilk will not scorn buttermilk soup served with barley for a hot day. It is a national dish in provincial sections of northern Germany. Here are directions given by Mme. Lemcke: Boil together two quarts of buttermilk and a cupful of barley for about three hours, or until the barley is tender A double boiler is neccessary, as the milk will burn easily. If the milk boils down add more: It may be eaten hot or cold. In Europe it is served with syrup.

COMMISSION WILL INSPECT TWELVE PROPERTIES THIS WEEK

Meeting Held in Governor's Office and Unsatisfactory Proposals Weeded Out-General Requirements.

The commission empowered to establish new institution for the Industrial School for Girls held a meeting in the Governor's office yesterday afternoon and went through the more than forty proposals that have been submitted by landowners desirous of disposing of a tract suitable for the site of Marion county and an expert, who is familiar with the principal features of every tract in question, the commissioners finally weeded out the proposals and selected twelve that were deemed worth inspection. To-day the commission will start out to visit each of these twelve tracts and it is anticipated that this work will occupy the remainder of the week. If none of the tracts is wholly satisfactory, or if other proposals are received that seem worth investigating, the commission will visit other possible sites. Of the twelve now under consideration almost all of them are within easy reach of at least one of the numerous traction lines running into the

The only limitation placed on the commission in the question of selecting a site is that the tract must include at least eighty acres and be within ten miles of the corporation line of the city of Indianapolis. The members of the commission have decided that a tract of about 120 acres will be what it will require, other things being equal. The members of the commission are Governor Durbin, E. M. Campbell, E. M. Johnson and August M. Kuhn, of Indianapolis, and John T. Stout, of Paoli.

IN REAL ROMAN STYLE.

Charlot Race May Be Run at State Fair This Year-The Plan.

Another big feature is being talked of for the coming state fair. It is the reproduction of the chariot race in Wallace's "Ben-Hur." C. C. Ensley, the originator of the head-end collision that was such a drawing card at the fair a few years ago, is working on the project and is very enthusi-It takes one back to the days of one's astic over it. He thinks it would be the grandmother to see a lace shawl again greatest attraction the State has ever known. Mr. Ensley's idea is to have everything in true Roman style, and has even gone so far as to consult with a number of companies about the construction of the other two draped demurely over the Roman charlots. He would have General Wallace himself present in flowing Roman robes, and the winner of the race would be crowned with a wreath, as in the days o Roman supremacy. Mr. Downing, of the board of agriculture, said yesterday that if it could be worked up properly he thought that it would be a great drawing card for the state fair. He said that untrained horses could not stand the terrible strain and excitement of a charlot race, but that horses could be obtained from hippodrome companies. He said that it would have to be the real old-time charlot race that made the blood run cold, or it would not pay. He suggested that one heat be run on each of the three most important days of the fair, and the winner of two heats be awarded the Roman wreath.

GAVE HIS WIFE SUGGESTION.

Remonstrated with Her the Way He Would with a Fellow at the Club. A certain young married man in Indianapolis is a devotee of the noble game of whist, and before his marriage it was his custom to repair to the club several nights each week to play with his cronies. In the early days after the honeymoon, he expressed compunction at leaving his wife at home alone while he was thus amusing Raw eggs have now been added to the himself, but that amiable woman gave him menu of the fragile, pervous woman whose full permission to spend as many nights love of "doing things" is out of proportion | at the club as he pleased (within limits) to her strength of endurance. Brown even begging him repeatedly to avail himbread, oranges, milk and olive oil, singly | self of every opportunity to become a past and combined, have been recommended for | master in the art, in order that he might bring home rules and suggestions for her own guidance. One evening the young couple formed a pair at a game of whist at way preferred.
